County Engineer Is Named

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE are discussed with the new county engineer, Charles A. Ferguson (center) by two county commissioners, Ralph Minton (left) and Thomas Parrett (right) soon after Ferguson was named to the post late Monday. The other commissioner, Homer Miller, has just returned from two weeks of observation and treatment at St. Frances Hospital in Columbus and was unable to attend the all-important meeting. Bear Facts! Congressman Caught With Illegal Meat

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 29—(AP)—An Alabama congressman who has been hunting mountain lions in Mexico came home yesterday to face the bare facts.

Rep. Brown (D-Ala) was arrested for possessing bear meat out of season.

Warden A. E. Nall found the 300-pound bear in Boykin's deep freeze locker about two weeks ago. It had been salted away in readiness for one of the congressman's ritzy Washington dinners.

The warden was waiting for Boykin when he came back from south of the border.

Boykin posted $100 and his trial was set for Dec. 9 in inferior court. The bear was killed by A. L. Webb, Jr., of McIntosh, Ala., who turned it over to Boykin. The animal was raiding his bee hives, said Webb, who was charged with killing a bear out of season.

Charles A. Ferguson Comes Here To Take Place Of E. N. Leonard

Charles A. Ferguson, Marietta, is the new Fayette County engineer.

The Board of Fayette County Commissioners appointed him Monday afternoon following his visit to this city by appointment, to discuss the position with the board members and to look over the duties and responsibilities of the office.

Ferguson is one of the highly regarded engineers in the state. He was Noble County's engineer for a number of years, was also resident state highway engineer there and for eight years was state highway division engineer for that district, No. 10.

He has been actively engaged in engineering work for 23 years. After leaving the state highway division work, he went to Marietta where he has been engaged in private engineering activities but was persuaded after considerable effort by local county officials and friends to come to this county to take the place of E. N. Leonard who while filling the unexpired term of Robert Willis whose death occurred last February, resigned to take a position as city engineer at Piqua.

The county commissioners are elated over securing the services of such a capable man as Ferguson who stands high in his profession and is familiar with all lines of county engineering work. He takes over his new duties immediately. He recently has been associated with Blue Rock Inc., as sales engineer in the corporation's offices in the First National Bank Building in Marietta.

He is 55 years of age. His family consists of his wife and one son, James, who has been director of the WLW television department at Cincinnati. The son leaves this week, however, to accept a fine new position in the television field at Huntington, W. Va.

The new engineer here is a veteran of World War I, having been identified with the 308th Engineers' Division. In his profession he has specialized in road building. The annual salary in the office here is $3316.

Now that Ferguson has arrived, the Fayette County Engineer's office has a full staff.

Other members of the staff are: Mark E. Weddle, draftsman; Harold Finley, surveyor-draftsman; Forrest Lininger, transit man; Karl J. Kay, part time staff member in charge of tax maps and Mrs. Myrtle Mallow, engineer clerk.

Ipana Tooth Paste Advertising Curbed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—The government today ordered Bristol-Myers Co., New York, to stop using certain advertising claims for Ipana tooth paste including those about its value in combatting "pink tooth brush."

An order issued by the Federal Trade Commission said the action resulted from "misrepresentation of the therapeutic value of Ipana tooth paste and of the extent to which it is used or recommended by dentists."

Missing Girl Found; Youth Picked Up, Too

ASHLAND, Nov. 29—(AP)—Donna Doggett, 16-year-old girl who disappeared while on her way to school Nov. 2, has been located in east St. Louis, Ill., a deputy here reported yesterday. The girl was reported picked up with Thomas Nicklas, 17, of Ashland by East St. Louis police.

Ohio Girl's Calf Is Among Best

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(AP)—It's a photogenic 15 year old Ohio girl versus the grownups today as the 50th Jubilee International Livestock exposition reaches its high point in the selection of the grand champion steer.

Pretty, blonde, smiling Bonnie Lu Logan, Van Wert, O., high school girl, matches her junior grand champion Aberdeen Angus, Lin-Lo, against the best fat cattle American stockmen can produce. The World Series of the animal kingdom enters its crucial fourth day. It continues through Saturday.

The pert Miss Logan, a crowd favorite, wears a beige, crushed western sombrero and a red cowboy shirt when showing off her prize black animal.

The day's winner, considered the king of the animal world, usually brings a fat price at the auctions which close the show. Last year's grand champion steer—also an Angus—brought a record price, $10.75 a pound.

China's Capital Is Abandoned As Reds Close In

U. S. Makes Protest Against Firing On Ship Near Shanghai

HONG KONG, Nov. 29—(AP)—The last plane from Chungking tonight reported the Communists on the banks of the Yangtze River opposite the abandoned provisional capital.

Passengers said the plane was fired upon by Communists as it took off from an island airport in the Yangtze River.

So swift was their exit from the beleaguered city passengers luggage in order to get away. None said they had abandoned their city was hurt.

All indications were the city would be in the hands of the Reds before long.

Chiang Mystery

Whether Chiang Kai-Shek flew on to Chengtu, where the nationalist government reportedly sought refuge, was not known here. Chengtu is 170 miles northwest of Chungking. There was a remote possibility the generalissimo might have been trapped in the doomed city by swift moving Communists. But he was known to have a plan ready for immediate departure.

The South China Morning Post published a story today saying Li Tsung-Jen, absent acting president of nationalist China, would leave shortly for the United States. Li, who is on the outs with Chiang, the "retired" president, has been in a Hong Kong hospital with ulcers.

The Post said the passport for Li's entry into the United States had been arranged through Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to Washington. Madame Li, the newspaper said, will not accompany the acting president.

TROUBLES COMPLICATED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—The state department drafted an "energetic protest" to the Chinese nationalist government today as a result of a second attack on an American merchant ship.

The skipper of the vessel, the Sir John Franklin, declared shells from two nationalist warships struck his ship 12 times during a barrage of about an hour.

The incident, piling up new troubles for the U. S. and China, occurred yesterday at the mouth of the Yangtze River, near Communist-held Shanghai.

It was at virtually the same spot where another ship of the same line, the Flying Cloud, was shelled by a nationalist warship on Nov. 15. An American protest filed at that time has produced no reply from the nationalist government, which at the moment is shifting capitals again to escape the advancing Communists.

Ship Operators Protest

"The new attack brought new demands from the ship operators, the Isbrandtsen Co., of New York, that the U. S. government protect American commerce."

There was no hint from any official source, however, that in the present fast-changing stage of developments in China the U. S. plans to do more than protest.

The warships presumably were enforcing a nationalist order issued last June declaring Shanghai and other major Communist-held ports to be closed to international commerce.

The U. S. and other maritime nations have refused to recognize this order as a valid blockade, and several ships of the Isbrandtsen round-the-world service have ventured into Shanghai in the face of the nationalist ban.

Mayor of New York Has Nervous Collapse

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer, apparently suffering from nervous and physical fatigue, has entered a hospital for a rest.

His physicians said he should have no visitors for the time being.

They said he evidently was suffering from "almost complete nervous and physical exhaustion" and ordered an "absolute and complete rest."

DETROIT, Nov. 29—(AP)—Edmund Secret, 63, former director of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station at Wooster, died last night at Ford Hospital following a brain operation.

City's Yuletide Decorations Going Up in Business Area

Downtown streets here started taking on the yuletide look about noon Monday, when workers began putting up Christmas decorations.

John Laufer of Bloomingburg, who has charge of putting up the decorations, said with favorable weather the decorations should be ready by the end of the week.

The decorations—featuring strands of real greenery and multi-colored lights—will be strung along Court, Main and Fayette Streets in the downtown area.

Approximately 1,650 lights will be used on the 28 strands which will be strung. Lighted Santa Clauses will hang from the strands between cross streets.

A Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by Ora Middleton, had plans for more than doubling the number of decorations which were put up last year.

This was made possible following the installation of additional light poles in the downtown section.

Merry-Go-Round Planned

The decorations will add considerably to the yuletide look which is already being evidenced by most of the downtown stores and retail establishments.

Later a merry-go-round will be put up on the Court House lawn for the entertainment of the youngsters. The carousel will operate in the afternoon and evenings.

Meanwhile, the decorations are moving steadily eastward on Court Street as Laufer and his crew get the downtown section ready for Christmas.

Laufer said each strand across Court Street will carry about 50 lights while those across Main Street, a wider thoroughfare, will carry about 70 lights.

Plans have been made to put up eight strands across Court Street and eight strands at the intersections while six are to be put up on the two side streets.

Palmer Road Bid Is $39,733

Made By Clinton Construction Company

Fayette County stood today to have more than five and a half miles of the Palmer Road improved with the help of the state and federal government funds.

The county's share of resurfacing the road was originally believed to be about $12,500. But Ulric Acton, county auditor, said the original estimate was too high and the county may get a rebate.

The Associated Press Tuesday reported that the State Highway Department announced that the Clinton Construction Company of Wilmington offered the lowest bid, which was $39,733.

The state had estimated that the road improvement would cost approximately $58,830.

According to the Fayette County engineer's office, the Palmer Road which crosses Jasper and Union Townships, will be blacktopped with macadam.

At the present time, it is in bad shape and needs the improvement.

The improvement will be financed out of county, state and federal funds.

Fraternity Killing At OSU Is Probed

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29—(AP)—The grand jury today began consideration of Ohio State University's homecoming fraternity slaying.

Freshman James D. Heer, 20-year-old Euclid, veterinarian student, is held in county jail on a first-degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of 21-year-old Jack T. McKeown of Norwood, managing editor of the student daily newspaper.

The grand jury may fix the charge at first-degree murder, second-degree murder, manslaughter, or can refuse to indict the Euclid youth.

Young Heer is a pledge of the same fraternity of which McKeown was a member. The shooting climaxed a fraternity party the night before Ohio State University's homecoming football game Nov. 12.

One witness was Miss Joyce Crafton of Cleveland, who was Heer's date at the party given the night of the shooting.

The black-haired Cleveland girl told her story to the grand jury, then visited Heer in his cell.

Woman Is Questioned About Burning Baby

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29—(AP)—Detective Chief Clem Merz continued today to question a woman about the death of an infant whose charred body was found in the furnace of the house next door.

He said the 30-year-old woman-mother of four other children told the authorities the child was born dead and that she wrapped it in newspapers and put it in the furnace about a week ago. She suffered a miscarriage, she added.

Parking Problem Solved For Christmas Shoppers

WOOSTER, Nov. 29—(AP)—The Board of Trade here has made plans for Christmas shoppers to park their cars at the Fairgrounds and then ride a bus free to public square. The bus will run every 15 minutes on Dec. 3 and from Dec. 10 to 24.

Flood Threat Eases As Toll Reaches 27

Rail bridge (background) and highway span down at Squash, B. C.

(By The Associated Press) A serious flood threat in north-west Washington appeared ended today and the Pacific northwest, along with most of the rest of the country had fair weather and mild temperatures.

Twenty-seven persons were killed, one was missing and property damage was estimated in the millions from the weekend wind and rain storm that swept from British Columbia to southern Oregon and into the Rocky Mountains. Nineteen died in British Columbia.

There were only a few wet spots early today. Showers and thunderstorms were reported over the middle Atlantic states and over the Appalachians from eastern Tennessee northward into New York State. Two traffic deaths were reported in Indiana last night because of heavy fog over most of the state. Highway and airline travel was slowed because of the poor visibility.

Slim Clues Are Left In Holdup Murder

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29—(AP)—With only meager clues to work on, police continued their search today for two bandits who shot fatally John E. Schreck, Jr., 61, a delicatessen operator.

The shooting occurred before four witnesses Sunday. Donald Reinhardt, son-in-law of the dead man, who saw the bullet fired into the abdomen of Schreck, told police there was no reason for it.

Schreck did not make a move after the men entered the store, he told Detective Chief Clem Merz. But one of them, he continued, shot the aged store keeper anyway. Then the two refused to let any one of the others give him aid.

Schreck died yesterday afternoon. The hold-up men described as roughly dressed and about 40 years old, seemed to be intoxicated, according to Reinhardt.

Body of 'Slot' Racketeer Found

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 29—(AP)—The slaying of George (Slim) Davis, police-listed policy operator, puzzled authorities today.

They thought it probably was a robbery killing but said it could possibly have been connected with gangland war over slot machine territories.

The 44-year-old Davis' body was found yesterday by three Youngstown hunters in a shallow grave eight miles west of here, in Austintown township.

Hunters Monte Patterson, Sid Stacey and James J. Clary said that as they approached a jeep

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—The Hope Natural Gas Co., which wholesales gas to the East Ohio Gas Co., yesterday was denied authority to increase its rates temporarily.

The power commission says the company wants to increase its rates by $1,963,400 a year. Of this amount, $1,373,706 would be charged to the East Ohio Co.

Terror Reigns As Blast and Flames Follow

'It Was Terrible' Says Eyewitness In Describing Tragedy

DALLAS, Nov. 29—(AP)—An American Airlines plane plowed into a chemical plant at the edge of Love Field and burned before dawn today. Twenty-eight or 29 of the 46 persons aboard were believed dead.

CRASH IN FRANCE, TOO

LYON FRANCE, Nov. 29—(AP)—Six or more persons were reported killed today in the flaming crash of an air France plane about 15 miles northwest of Lyon.

Air France said in Paris 37 persons were aboard the plane. The crash occurred near Saint-Just-Chaleyssin, a town of about 500 population, at 4:45 P. M. (10:45 A. M., EST).

Seventeen persons were hospitalized from the big DC-6, enroute to Mexico City from New York and Washington. They appeared to be the only survivors.

The plane struck as it approached for a landing. A crew member who staggered, dazed and bleeding, to a nearby house, said one of the engines was afire and he had stopped the other three.

Colored flames from burning chemicals lit up the scene eerily. Nearly two hours after the crash, officers described the situation as "organized chaos."

Firemen were still pulling charred and rigid bodies from the twisted wreckage.

Three of Crew Survive

Three of the five crew members were among the survivors, American Airlines said.

In New York, American Airlines said there were 41 passengers aboard. The 41st was believed to be a baby.

The home office said 45 persons had been accounted for. The line said 27 bodies had been recovered, one died in a hospital, four were in a hospital, 10 had been released from hospitals after treatment and there were three other survivors.

A blue uniformed representative of the lines stood by the plane, weeping unashamedly as he kept count of the bodies brought out.

Flames licked the one-story galvanized building into which the larger part of the plane crashed, for hours after it hit. Firemen used grappling hooks to pull apart the mixture of plane and building.

It was about 5:45 A. M. (CST) when the big plane struck the Magnalux Plant on the northwest edge of the field. The plant inspects plane engines by chemical means.

Both the plane and plant apparently burst into flames. Small explosions followed.

Grim Description Given

Fred L. Sheaf, 28, employee of the Pan-American Plastic Corporation, who lives in a barracks 400 feet from the scene, told this story:

"The first explosion" shook my bed. I ran out of the door thinking that one of the gasoline storage tanks across the street from the barracks had exploded. It was a rumbling, jarring explosion.

"When I got to the door, I heard someone holler 'a plane has crashed.' I put on my pants and a shirt and dashed down the street. I got to the scene three minutes after the explosion.

"The wreckage was strewn everywhere and the flames were high and billowing. They were blue and white flames.

"Wires were breaking overhead, and when the first people to arrive saw them, they scurried to get out of the way.

"I should say four minutes after the explosion a man walked right out of the wreckage. He was white as a sheet and though he walked right out of the fire, he didn't appear to be burned.

"I have tried to figure out where he came from and the only explanation I can think of is that he was thrown out of the plane itself when the crash occurred, was unconscious and came to when the heat hit him.

"His arm was bent and surely broken. He screamed—'don't touch my arm.' Then he said, 'where is there a doctor?'"

Co-Pilot's Statement

A seriously injured crew member (Please turn to Page Two) ber staggered to a nearby home. While blood oozed from his mouth, he said:

"I want to make a statement."
Frances Hudson, a grocery store employee, said she took this statement from the man, who described himself as the co-pilot:
"Number four engine afire on approach. Air opened the right hatch. The plane was on fire and I cut all four engines. The engines were off when we hit."
"I didn't get his name except 'George,'" she said. "His head was bleeding and his back was hurt."

An American Airlines spokesman said crew members in the hospital were Capt. Laurent (Tommy) Claude, (the pilot); Robert Lewis, first officer, and William S. Forbes, flight engineer.

Hostesses on the plane were Josephine Cadena and Margaret Van Biberen, the spokesman said.

The man who said he was co-pilot collapsed on the porch at the home of J. M. Kiddy, about 100 yards from the field. He was taken to a hospital.

Mrs. K. C. Gullett said other survivors struggled into her front yard.

Couple with Baby
"A couple came up with a baby. The man was carrying the baby. The baby was bleeding and crying. x x x in a few minutes an ambulance took these people away." All of the injured were taken to a Parkland City Hospital, a city-owned institution.

The scene was one of organized chaos for hours after the crash. Ambulances, and fire trucks raced over the field. Sightseers crowded in.

A wing was the nearest intact part of the plane. One part of the wing still had two motors in it. The propellers were bent, but still in place. The wing was lying at the side of what is left of the Magnaflex Plant. Part of another wing was nearby—a burned-out engine on it.

The rest of the plane was a scrambled mess of wreckage. Hundreds of people got into the area in spite of a police blockade. The screaming ambulances and fire trucks added to the pandemonium.

Regular traffic seemed to be continuing at the field, however. Col. Harold Byrd, chief of the Texas Civil Air Patrol right at the scene, said "this is terrible. This is terrible. There is no other word."

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Wheat and oats advanced at the Board of Trade today, but corn lagged. The advance in wheat was attributed to mill buying in December delivery, accompanied by short covering.

Oats acted tight from the start of the session and offerings were small. On the other hand, offerings in the corn pit were fairly liberal, although country shipments were light and to-arrive purchases placed at only 55,000 bushels.

Soybeans did not follow the trend of wheat and eased when traders started liquidation in the December delivery. The lower cottonseed oil market was a trading factor.

Lard was easy at the start and developed soft spots during the session.

Why Didn't They Tell Me I'm A Negro?

Bloomington Lions Host First Zone Meet

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(P)—Over the week-end and the Thanksgiving holiday I got earache from radios and eyestrain from television.

Remembering back to the painless, peaceful days of crystal, I began to think: the baby's pretty big now.

But how big? So I got some notes together on the boom in hear-and-see.

Take television—By the first of the year, manufacturers say, there'll be three million television receiving sets in the hands of the public.

Modern television was introduced at the World's Fair in New York, 1939. That year, too, a baseball game was televised to experimental stations.

In 1941 the first licensed commercial television station started business atop the Empire State Building in New York. Before the end of that year eight license stations went into business.

(Before it can operate, a television or radio station must get okay of the FCC, the Federal Communications Commission which is the federal agency controlling the air waves.)

Television receiving sets were on the market before the war. But the war stopped the building of new sets and new broadcasting stations although six television stations did business during the war.

This wartime freeze was lifted in October, 1945. Now 90 television stations are operating. The FCC has given an okay to 22 more.

In addition, FCC has 350 other applications for approval of new stations but the FCC is holding up on them. Why? FCC gave two main reasons:

Lack of room for new stations until some adjustments are made about distributing the air waves; and interference between stations. Meaning: transmitters were bothering one another because there didn't seem to be enough distance between them.

But there's a relay up and down the Atlantic coast and as far west as Chicago and St. Louis.

Meanwhile, FCC wanted to see if color television was ready. It called hearings.

There was a big argument over this: industry split wide open, one part claiming color television is

LIONS PRESIDENT Bob Jefferson of Bloomington pays tribute to Frank Slager, who got a father and his four sons to join the Bloomington club, by presenting a pin to him at a zone meeting held Monday night.

Members of the Bloomington Lions Club played host to their first zone meeting Monday night and had 81 on hand to take part in the affair.

The group ate a delicious chicken dinner, engaged in some tricks with the tail twister, took a lively part in the official zone meeting then settled down to enjoy some colored movies of the Lions International Convention.

Bob Moorman, new zone chairman, presiding over his first zone meeting, brought the Lions from six clubs in the zone up to date on some of the club accomplishments and encouraged them to strive for even higher goals.

One of the highlights of the meeting came when Bob Jefferson presented a pin to him at a zone meeting held Monday night.

Announcement was made that the Board of Directors for the Bloomington club voted $10 for the purchase of Christmas Seals used to fight TB.

Colored films of the International Lions convention were shown and narrated by R. L. Carbaugh, district chairman who assisted in planning the International Convention.

Guests of the Bloomington club members included Robert Angus, W. C. Vernon, Donald Lange, Neil Hercules and David Whiteside.

Visiting Lions included Lions Gregg and Carbeck from the Bellbrook club; Lions Lewis, Gordon and Moorman from the Jamestown club; Lions Cone, Dussell, Klever, Smith, Coil and Stuckey from the Jeffersonville club; Lions Bowman, Kline, Sheard, Seip, Pierce and Carbaugh of the Fairfield-Osborn club.

Dr. Samuel D. Sauer, Luke Musser, Earl Babb, Richard Rankin and Loren Hynes of the Washington C. H. club.

MAN IS STABBED
GREENFIELD—Elmer Wilson, 40, is in a serious condition at his home after having been stabbed under the shoulder during a fight. Harold Saylor, 25, Lebanon, is being held in connection with the affair.

Lee Sheridan Back In Restaurant

After a one day occupancy in Sheridan's Restaurant, Alfred Sallettes turned the key back to the original owner, Lee Sheridan.

Last Wednesday, Sallettes laid down a deposit on a deal to purchase the establishment from Sheridan.

He took over occupancy immediately, then the next day came back and said he had changed his mind.

Sheridan gave him until Monday to make up his mind, but Sallettes never showed up, so he automatically forfeited his deposit. Sheridan explained as he took over again.

A WORLD OF THRIFTY GIFTS AT PENNEY'S

A Fine Idea Expressed by A Little Girl

Over in our part of Washington C. H. there lives a little girl who, every Christmas begs her mother to let her stay up late so she can "hold on to Christmas."

Most of us want to hold on to the good things of life. We want to make the spirit of Christmas last.

There is a noticeable difference in the atmosphere, in the attitude and in the actions of most people at Christmas time. If ever the complete selfishness of human beings is made to slip a little, it is at such time of the year when the Christmas appeal is in the air.

Most of us can make Christmas last—not by holding back the clock, but by performing some deed that will serve a good purpose the year round.

Right now, here at home, there is an example of how such a deed can be done. We can play our part buying and using Christmas Seals which are sold once a year by the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association to raise funds to support its year-round program of tuberculosis prevention and control.

That is not all this organization does, not by any means. This money you give through this Christmas Seal sale, also finances such things as the mass X-ray surveys which are held in this community. It also pays for free chest clinics such as have been held at the offices of the local health department. It pays for a health education program being outlined and followed and it provides aid to many TB patients at the Mt. Logan Sanatorium. It has plans for broadening its field of work also.

Thus, when we buy Christmas Seals we are actually performing a service for our neighbors, maybe ourselves. We are helping to protect our community. We are doing what our little girl friend tries to do. We are "holding on to Christmas."

Profitable Twosomes

Members of a group of business counselors who advise those who are starting new enterprises claim that husband-and-wife partnerships are making successful ventures in many lines.

In some cases wives carried on businesses while their husbands were in military service and the partnership continued when the war was over. In others, husbands and wives with similar interests and aptitudes, joined forces in marketing their talents. Inns, antique or other small shops and specialty food marketing have formed outlets for the energies of many family partnerships.

Not only a successful business but a successful marriage also is likely to result from such a combination of forces. No statistics are furnished as to the number of divorces granted to marriage partners who are also successful business partners, but our guess would be that the number is small.

Careless People

A woman in her seventies, picked up in one city on a vagrancy charge, regaled newspaper reporters with a story of fifty years of shoplifting and theft in various other forms. She said she did not fall among evil companions in her youth, nor was she led astray in any of the other traditional ways. She just noticed that "people are awful careless", and decided to cash in on the observation.

She figured she has "picked up" half a million dollars from careless people in the course of her fifty years of larcenous activity. That sum represents quite a bit of carelessness. The least the owners of the half million could have done, reason suggests, was to make it difficult for her. Apparently they didn't.

Long Coaxing of the Brownie

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK.—(P)—Bluebirds perch on her window sill when Freida Hempel sings. They like to hear her voice—as kings and presidents did in the past.

Now in her sixties, the blonde soprano, a star in the golden age of song still gives concerts. And she teaches her art to young singers who want to go into opera.

"But they all want to make money too quick," she sighed. "They don't like to work. Rushing is the worst enemy of the singer. Time—time is everything. It heals and perfects. You have to go a little way through life before you have anything worth saying—or singing."

Madame Hempel still practices every day, just as when she sang with Caruso at the Metropolitan.

"Just as you wash your face every day—so it is with a voice," she said. "You must exercise it."

For 33 years she has lived in the same apartment overlooking

Central Park. On dreary days she hangs up a pink ribbon in the living room to cheer her up. And the apartment is fragrant always with the scent from a brass plate heaped with dried roseleaves.

"We have to improve on life a little to make it beautiful," she said.

Once a day Madame Hempel, her maid, Rosa, and her old dog, Brownie, walk across the park. The people she passes may fail to recognize her, but the pigeons don't. They flutter around her in a blue-gray cloud. She distributes 100 pounds of feed each week to the birds and small animals.

"I have a couple of Bluebirds, too," she said. "In the spring they fly across the park and listen at my window when I sing."

It is in the park that the opera star found Brownie.

She has been notably kind throughout her life to animals, and sometimes has been late to concerts because she stopped to help stray cats or dogs.

One day about 13 years ago she looked across the park through her opera glasses and saw a wandering dog. It was small and young and homeless. For a year she watched him at intervals, and came to know his habits.

"In the winter my heart bled for him," she said. "I could see the icicles stuck in his long hair."

One afternoon she made up a meal for him and took it over. He wouldn't let her approach him, but when she left he ate the meal.

"After that I had a date with him every day for five years," Madame Hempel recalled. "He was like a young deer. I coaxed and coaxed, but he never let me come within 100 feet of him."

Each day, however, he ate the pound-and-a-half of meat and vegetables she left. On one occasion two suspicious detectives convinced she was either a spy or a prisoner, took her to the station house.

"I will eat some of the meat in the package to show you it is all right," she told the sergeant, and she did. After that policemen in the park used to phone her and tell her where Brownie was. In 1942 ASPCA agents trapped the dog for her, and she took him home. Since then he has been her constant companion.

Congratulations in Ignorance

By George E. Sokolsky

I want to publish a letter written by Rev. Albert W. Kauffman, Congregational Church, Vernon, Michigan, to the magazine, "Soviet Russia Today." It is an interesting letter because every clergyman, every professor in a university, every high school teacher, every editor is leader of men. Each has a personal following small or large: each influences the opinions of other Americans. Some are accepted by their followings without question.

This is the Reverend Kauffman's letter. "I want to congratulate you (Soviet Russia Today) upon the excellent magazine you are giving us. At the same time, I want to assure you that there are thousands of leaders in American religious and educational fields who share your viewpoints and who are fighting against the capitalistic ideology that is prompting war against Russia."

"If only we can live through the present Truman administration and until the fever of the radical and foolish patriotic organizations cools off, I am sure there will be no war with Russia. It helps me greatly to understand and to be patient with the 'patriotic editors' and legionnaires when I recall similar zealous groups at the close of World War I."

"The greatest promoter of war with Russia is the Vatican and the hiring priests that swarm over the United States in an effort to put the Roman church in power here."

"I am delighted with the same leadership you are giving us and feel confident that the extreme positions being taken by the witch-hunters will discredit them eventually."

First of all, is "the capitalistic ideology?" "prompting war against Russia?" American capitalism, during the war, gave Soviet Russia $11,000,000,000; Russian Communism gave the United States nothing. How an American clergyman can assume that "capitalistic ideology" is stimulating war with Russia, after all the concessions and appeasements that were made on our side at Tehran and Yalta — and none on their side — is impossible to understand.

Secondly, at Yalta, the United States made it possible for Soviet Russia to seize and hold a large number of European Countries and China and half of Korea. Our assumption at Potsdam was that these people would be permitted to hold free elections to determine their own forms of government. Soviet Russia broke practically every clause of the Potsdam agreement. We violated none. Each time Soviet Russia violated a Potsdam clause, it accused the United States of war-mongering.

Thirdly, at the United Nations under the Baruch plan, this country, to maintain the peace, was willing to neutralize its then most effective weapon, the atom bomb, by internationalizing it under terms equal to all and unfair only to the United States. Russia rejected our proposals and submitted such as would give her strength and weaken us. The offers made under the Baruch plan are still open. They involve inspection, control, and punishment by the United Nations.

In every country where Soviet Russia exerts any influence, she has conducted a campaign of vilification, humiliation, and hate against the United States. This campaign has been waged even within the United States by Soviet agents, both native and alien. Also, when Soviet Russia was our ally in war, she maintained an espionage corps right into the most sensitive agencies of our government. We have been driven to loyalty tests, offensive to our concepts, by her infiltrations.

The Reverend Kauffman speaks of "Foolish Patriotic Organizations." How can patriotism or a patriotic organization be foolish? Is it foolish to love one's own country? Is it not foolish to despise one's own country? Is it foolish to be a "Patriotic Editor?" Is it not foolish to be a subversive editor who denounces, defames, abuses his own country?

There is something very twisted in the Reverend Kauffman's thinking, for his country is in peril. In a polar war, should one be fought, his state of Michigan is likely to be attacked first. It would, because of its geography and industry, be the prime target. Can he take that danger as lightly as he does?

Apparently there are some Americans who fail to understand what has occurred in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, China. They fail to grasp the overwhelming imperialism of Soviet Russia.

One Type of Anemia Open to Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
THE various forms of anemia are often classified according to their cause, the primary anemias being due to some disease of the blood-making organs, those called secondary resulting from some less fundamental condition which adversely affects the blood.

Thus, a simple dietary deficiency due to failure to eat enough iron-containing foods may produce a secondary anemia. Hemorrhage will do the same thing. A third and most common cause is a long-continued infection.

Improve Rapidly
Since the blood-forming mechanism in such patients is normal, they usually improve rapidly with the administration of iron-containing preparations, plus correction of the cause of the anemia. In certain cases, however, this treatment fails.

It has recently been found that in these cases where iron fails, another mineral, cobalt, will sometimes succeed. Perhaps the recently discovered vitamin B12 might also be of help. It would appear that the administration of cobalt causes an increase in the number of red blood cells. The red cells produced in this way seem to contain a greater amount of hemoglobin or coloring than do ordinary cells.

The preparation of cobalt in a water solution was given to 61 patients three times a day. Of these, 32 had anemia which had not responded to ordinary forms of treatment. Each day the number of red cells in the blood was determined.

(Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

In order to see how the patients responded to the treatment.

Of five patients who had anemia due to long-continued infection, two showed an increase in the number of red cells and coloring. One patient with a cancer that could not be removed also responded well to the cobalt treatment insofar as overcoming the anemia is concerned. The preparation was not of help in the anemia due to chronic kidney disease and cirrhosis of the liver.

Loss of Appetite

Every now and then certain reactions to the cobalt may occur, including loss of appetite, sickness at the stomach, and vomiting.

If a patient has anemia which does not respond to the ordinary forms of treatment, such as the administration of iron-containing preparations and liver extract, the possibility of using cobalt and vitamin B12 should be considered. It would appear, however, that further studies are necessary before cobalt can be advised for general use.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. R. M.: I get chills while sleeping, even though I am not cold. My fingers are swollen upon arising in the morning. What causes this?

Answer: The swelling of the fingers may be caused by some local disturbance of the circulation, or possibly to arthritis.

The chilliness may be due to a glandular or a nervous disorder. You are in need of a thorough study by your physician.

Ohio Turnpike Law Facing Court Test

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29.—(P)—The state controlling board today laid the groundwork for a court suit to test constitutionality of the new Ohio turnpike law.

The board authorized transfer of $600,000 in state highway department funds to the state turnpike commission for use in surveying and planning turnpikes for this state.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson has said he will not honor such vouchers.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy said today he would bring suit against the state auditor seeking to determine whether such a transfer, as called for by the new turnpike law, is constitutional.

The vote for the transfer was four to one. Norman Back, deputy state auditor representing Auditor

Ferguson, cast the dissenting ballot. Other members of the board are Governor Lausche, Attorney General Duffy and the members of the legislative finance committee, Sen. Clingan Jackson (D-Mahoning) and Rep. Anna F. O'Neil (D-Summit).

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(P)—The Ohio birth rate during the first nine months of 1949 was 23.8 per 1,000 population, the public health service said yesterday. Ohio reported 186,353 births during the period.

Pipeline Work To Start Soon

Workmen Gathering To Finish Job

Work of completing most, if not all, of the 26-inch gas pipe line from near Millidgeville into Warren County, will get under way late this week, it was indicated by spokesmen for the company.

Workmen are now gathering to start the job as soon as possible. While offices of the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. will be at the Washington Hotel here, under direction of Chief Inspector, Jack Middaugh, the contractor's office will be in Wilmington. Most of the workmen will reside in and near Wilmington, while the work is under way.

J. A. Williamson is the general superintendent of the construction company. Lee Gray, is assistant superintendent. Buck Johnson, office manager, and Bill Van Cleave will be timekeeper.

Inspector Middaugh will have a number of other inspectors under his direction here. They will maintain their offices at the Hotel Washington until the job is completed.

Work of stringing pipe will start as soon as the right-of-way crew cuts fences and makes other preparations for the work. This is expected to start later this week.

Plans call for completing 23 miles of the line, and if the weather permits and pipe is available, the remaining 10 miles will also be completed within the next few weeks.

OFFICIALS DROPPED

PORTSMOUTH—The Scioto County Board of Elections has removed four election officials in precinct B, Green Township, for errors and neglect of duty in conducting the recent election.

Mrs. Clarence E. Craig, Speaker At Delta Kappa Gamma Meeting

Mrs. Clarence E. Craig was the magnetic speaker before the Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary education society, on Monday evening. The artistic home of Miss Dorothea Gaut was a rare setting for the human interest story which gripped the hearts of listeners as Mrs. Craig told of her vacation journey through the recently devastated countries of Europe. Miss Gaut was assisted in the hospitalities and the serving of refreshments by Miss Bess Bruce Cleaveland and Miss Lillian Taylor.

Miss Marjorie Evans, president of the society, conducted a short meeting in which plans were made for a Christmas party and the initiation of new members at the Washington Country Club on December 12. Miss Evans also gave a realistic account of the State Delta Kappa convention which was held at Toledo on September 30, and October 1, to which she was a delegate.

The program chairman of the evening, Miss Kathleen Davis, presented the speaker, Mrs. Craig, listeners traveled with her in spirit. Bernard Baruch also was a passenger on the Queen Elizabeth which she pictured as a floating city of 2300 people, with three banks, three shops, three movies, and three classes of people. Mr. Baruch was met at London dock by Winston Churchill, a sight not to be ignored.

At Buckingham Palace, with its disappointing exterior, the party saw the colorful "changing of the guard". They saw the King and Queen leaving for London where from the hand of the Lord Mayor they would receive the "Key of London Proper." Princess Margaret was not with the royal party, but rode in her own carriage. London, the speaker said, was dull. There had been little rebuilding, and little material to rebuild with. The destruction wrought by the war had been cleared for a block around St.

Paul's Cathedral. Every thing was rationed, with poor food, and little of it. People who had money could take only a little of it out of the bank. Living was monotonous but the people were gracious and friendly.

In Amsterdam, Holland, there was a lovely hotel which displayed a large American flag. Food was rationed but the dykes had been rebuilt and they were grateful for the help of the American government. In Brussels, Belgium, the food was not rationed. The side-walk cafes were crowded and flowers were everywhere. A cup of coffee cost 75 cents.

In Germany the speaker visited her son, Andrew Craig, now an official of the American government. She spent some time in the home of the relatives of David H. Barchet, and stood in the room where Mr. Barchet was born. She saw the old German fortifications, General Patton's headquarters, and the great American cemetery where they still are burying bodies in metal caskets. The Germans are working hard, are thrifty, and are fast recovering.

Beautiful Switzerland, declared the speaker, is surrounded by natural mountain barriers which even Hitler would not try to take. In lovely Paris, filled with tourists, Mrs. Craig attended High Mass at Notre Dame. In other cathedrals on the continent, at High Mass the churches were crowded, every seat was taken, and hundreds were standing. Mrs. Craig came home on the Queen Mary.

WCTU Will Meet With Miss Stafford

The Washington C. H. WCTU will hold a combined November and December meeting on Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Annette Stafford. French and Mrs. John Van Gundy will be speakers and a scene of the Christ child will be on display.

Special Christmas music will be an added feature of the meeting and all members are urged to attend, and may include guests.

Testimonial Dinner Planned Here For Eddie Cobb when He Returns

Plans for honoring Eddie Cobb, one of the nation's leading harness horse race drivers, today were taking form here.

The way things stack up now, a dinner is to be held about the middle of next month with the Washington C. H. owner-trainer-driver the honor guest.

The exact date for the testimonial has not yet been decided; for it is not yet certain just when he will get back home from the racing campaigns.

The place for the affair also is uncertain. But, talk centers on the American Legion hall and the Country Club, the only two places big enough to comfortably seat the turnout of horse lovers expected.

The arrangements are being handled by a loosely knit organization headed by George Steep. Lending a hand with the preliminaries are such interested sportsmen as Harold Maddux, Emmett Passmore and Frank Ellis.

Mansfield Mentor 'Coach of Year' In Ohio Football

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Augie Morningstar, who tutored Mansfield's Tigers to second place in Ohio's scholastic football race, today ascended the throne as the state's high school "coach of the year."

The former Purdue star, who learned his early football at Massillon High School under Coach Paul E. Brown, was voted the state's outstanding mentor for 1949 in the annual Associated Press poll.

Coaches and sports writers participating in the balloting pinned the badge of greatness on "Augie" in convincing manner. His closest rivals were Jim McCarthy, coach of Cincinnati Purcell's undefeated team; Herman (Bup) Rearick, the always-up-there pilot of Canton McKinley's Bulldogs, and Charles (Chuck) Mather, whose Massillon Tigers took the state title for the second straight year.

Two Clean Sweeps In Fraternal Loop

Two teams turned in three-game wins in Monday night's Fraternal League bowling at Bowland.

The Mt. Sterling Boosters, with four totals over 500, whitewashed the Universals and the Elks made a clean sweep of their match with the Lions.

After winning the first two games, the Country Clubbers were nosed out by five pins in the last one by the Rotarians. Carman was the "hot" man on the Country Club team. He tallied 589 in the three games.

The close match of the evening was between the Sabina Moose and the Record-Herald crew. The Moose won the first and last games but lost the middle tilt by 27 pins.

Xavier Accepts Salad Bowl Bid

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29 — (P) — That lean and hungry look that Xavier's footballers have had for the last week or so isn't lean and hungry any more.

The Musketeers will feast at football's Salad Bowl in Phoenix, Ariz., on Jan. 2—if you can feast on a salad bowl.

It took two votes to turn the trick but the Muskies finally accepted last night an invitation to meet Arizona State of Tempe, Ariz., in the Salad Bowl. It will be the first bowl appearance for the Muskies and the invitation came just when it looked as if the boys were going to be left in the cold as far as bowls were concerned.

The idea budded spontaneously among horsemen at the Fairground training center here right after Cobb had driven Jerry the First to a second world record for pacers in two weeks at Hollywood Park in California.

Since then a couple of informal meetings have been held and out of these grew the testimonial dinner plans.

Indications now are that the affair will be largely limited to horse lovers of Fayette County. The organizers explained that they wanted the home contingent to have every opportunity to attend and that they feared they might be crowded out if too much territory is taken in.

Competition Keen In Ladies League

Not one three-game win was turned in during the Ladies League bowling at Bowland Monday night.

The pace setting Kirkpatrick Funeral Home girls lost the opener to the Loudner quintet, but got the range of the head pin and started piling up their totals to win the last two.

The girls from Funk Restaurant in Jeffersonville added up 2404 in their three games, but lost the first one to the Morris Store team by 33 pins.

In a bang-up match, the NCR girls won the first two games of their match with the Candy-makers by narrow margins before they lost the last one by 15 pins.

The Try-Me Taxies won the first and last games of their match with the Montgomery Warders but dropped the middle tilt.

The program, under the present loose draft of the plans, will be more or less informal. There will be a speaker high up in race circles, however, but he has not yet been selected definitely.

But, by and large, the dinner has a three-fold purpose: (1) to honor Cobb, (2) to give the horse-men and followers of the sport here an opportunity to get better acquainted with him and (3) give everyone a chance to get together and talk about horses and racing.

Cobb has been racing his stable in California for the last few weeks. Previously he was the sensation of the race tracks in the midwest with a little time out to crash the spotlight at the swank tracks in the east.

Mid-American Title Is Awarded to UC

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29 — (P) — The University of Cincinnati's Bearcats were officially crowned last night as Mid-America Conference football champions.

David Reece, commissioner of the Mid-America loop, presented the championship trophy to the Bearcats at the annual football banquet. He paid tribute to the U. C. coaching staff as one of the finest in the country.

Charles (Chick) Mileham, athletic director, disclosed that U. C.'s 1950 schedule will include games with Hardin-Simmons, William & Mary, Kentucky, Western Michigan, Ohio University, Xavier and Miami. The dates and places haven't been set officially as yet. And another game probably will be added.

Thirty-seven members of the 1949 squad received major letters at the banquet. They included Lowell Storm of Hamilton, O.

Conservatives Win Colombia Election

BOGOTA, Nov. 29 — (P) — Colombia's conservative party won the country's presidency for another four years yesterday in a tense but quiet election boycotted by the liberal opposition.

Nearly all the votes seemed to have gone to conservative Laureano Gomez, the only candidate. The liberals withdrew their nominee, Dario Echandia, after Conservative President Mariano Ospina Perez three weeks ago proclaimed a state of siege, a modified form of martial law, to suppress political clashes.

Notre Dame Is First And Oklahoma Second

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 — (P) — The fighting Irish of Notre Dame today reign as college football champions of 1949.

Notre Dame drew 172 of 248 first place votes and a bulging total of 2,402 points in the ninth and final Associated Press roll of football writers and sportscasters across the nation.

Although Notre Dame, unbeaten over a 37-game stretch, still has to play Southern Methodist Saturday, most of the other high point teams have finished their schedules.

Oklahoma, 41-0 winner over the Oklahoma Aggies, recaptured second from idle California despite strong first place support for the Golden Bears from the Pacific coast. Oklahoma had 18 firsts to 40 for California but the sooners piled up a point edge of 2,018 to 1,900. Points are figured on the basis of 10 for first, nine for second and so on down to one for tenth.

Army's flashy 38-0 rout of Navy failed to boost the Cadets' fourth-place standing. They polled 12 firsts and 1,838 points.

The other first went to College of Pacific, which had four, and Villanova, No. 1 on two ballots.

Behind the "big four" of Notre Dame, Oklahoma, California and Army, in that order, came Rice, moving from seventh to fifth on its 21-7 triumph over Baylor. That win guaranteed Rice the Southwestern Conference crown and the job of Cotton Bowl host.

Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota, all of whom ended their regular seasons a week ago, ran sixth, seventh and eighth, in that order. Ohio State California's Rose Bowl opponent, and Michigan each dropped a peg in the final ratings but Minnesota was a firm eighth.

Louisiana State, 21-0 conqueror of Tulane and Sugar Bowl foe of Oklahoma, edged into the top ten, taking ninth place with a surprising 516-point vote.

College of Pacific, with one game to play, finished 10th with the help of an 88-0 romp over California Poly. Both Baylor and Tulane dropped out of the top ten.

Ted Atkinson, Steve Brooks, Logan Batcheller, Benny Civitello and Dog Dodson are some of the top jockeys who will ride at Hialeah this winter.

Horse Racing Betting Is Off

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 — (P) — Betting at the nation's horse tracks this year fell off 10.44 per cent as compared with 1948, but the owners of the racing plants generally are pretty well satisfied.

Many tracks, as in New York, had expected a drop of about 15 per cent in the amount of money shoved through the pari-mutuel machines.

A survey of thoroughbred racing by the Associated Press in 20 states — not including harness tracks — disclosed that attendance was down 5.29 per cent from last year. This also was generally less than expected.

However, for the sixth season in a row, betting topped the billion dollar mark, as 22,591,421 persons wagered $1,395,731,778 on the ponies in 1949. A year ago, 23,853,807 racegoers circulated $1,558,491,530. The 1949 figure represented a slight drop.

States showing pari-mutuel increases included Ohio. In 207 days of racing this year, Ohio tracks drew an estimated attendance of 590,000 persons who bet a total of $26,885,085. That compares with 1948 totals of 436,000 estimated attendance and $25,775,861 for 218 days.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29 — (P) — Bowling ace Walter (Shang) Mercurio checked off his 22nd perfect score today.

"This is the best one of all," charted Mercurio after rolling his 12th straight strike in the Omarlo Home League last night. "It's been so long that I thought I was through with 300 scores."

I Hear Adventure Calling

CHAPTER FIFTY-TWO
GENE HAD SAID, "Everything you've wanted has been handed you on a silver platter." Let me know about it. Myles' rise from private to major had been earned the hard way. Looked as if winning Fran were in the same category. So what, obstacles to be hurdled never had stopped him from working for what he wanted.

During the past week he had avoided Eckhard while he analyzed his story. Something fishy about it. Why was it necessary to check that night? Business was through for the day, why not wait until morning? The important look, the Constable had not been mentioned at the midnight meeting. Was it probable that he, in the neighborhood to check off the arrival of rogus old masters, wouldn't have been tipped off that the painting, authentic or fake, was in Sinclair's possession?

The blotters that showed the muddy outlines of feet, supposedly those of the person whom Eckhard had seen enter the ell, had been snatched just as the artist was about to tell where he had found them--had he been about to tell or had the flashlight been prearranged? Had Sinclair grabbed them? Fran would know if he had anything in his hand when first he saw him in the garden. She couldn't dodge a showdown forever, he would talk with her. He'd hang around the Gallery until he wore her out. Having decided that, he would go on to the second item. Nothing so restful as a decision, it cleared the way for the next move; conversely, nothing was so upsetting as vacillation, it played hob with one's judgment. The next item on his agenda was consideration of a newspaper clipping he had received in the morning mail.

He glanced at the lighthouse that loomed ahead, snowy white against the clear blue sky. He drifted while he read the clipping. A picture from the exhibition of the Constable's work. He glanced at the heading--the thedate also had been blacked out. It is one of several hundred that have been gathered in for a six-week exhibition. The pictures were lent by museums and private galleries. The theft took place in mid-afternoon while hundreds of visitors crowded the halls. The thief succeeded in taking the painting out of its frame.

The stolen picture was one of which belongs in a private gallery whose owner's name has not been revealed. Why had the names of the museum where the show was held, of the painting, the artist, the nationality of the private gallery, the date of the article been blacked out? Why send the deleted clipping to him? It didn't make sense. The fact that stuck in his mind was that the thief had succeeded in taking the painting out of its frame. Eckhard had said he had changed one picture for another in the repair shop--but this other guy had accomplished it in a hall crowded with visitors. Must have been a prestidigitator. While Eckhard was on the job had he swapped one of his for the Constable? How would he know where to find the masterpiece? Fran had said that no one but Henry Sargent knew where it had been placed. That missing canvas measured 31x38. How large were Eckhard's?

Smart fella. The question would provide his excuse for visiting the Gallery. He would say that Nat wanted him to measure "Country Lane" that she might plan where to hang it in the New York house. He would bring down two birds with one stone--make Fran listen to him and at the same time find out if Eckhard could have changed the Constable to one of his frames. The artist had confided that only one person in the place beside himself knew the underlying reason his work had been hung in the Sargent Gallery. Was the owner that person? Not likely, he was too explosive to be trusted with a secret. Was he? He had managed to keep the theft at the Gallery under cover for days, even now the rumor that Elias Pond had been struck by a thief who wanted his bike, not by a broken branch, was little more than a whisper. Elias. He was forever discounting Si in his summing up. Si had smelled "sort of sickish" cigarette smoke before the blow had felled him. That let out Eckhard as his assailant, no one could mistake the smell of his pipe. Looked as if the next move was to collect a few cigarettes and try them out on Si. If the owner of the Sargent Gallery had the low-down as to why Eckhard's paintings were on exhibition there, why hadn't the clipping been sent to him rather than to a person like himself who knew only that he liked work of certain artists without being able to explain technically why? Was it because someone knew that the painting which Henry Sargent was the stolen masterpiece? If it were true no wonder Fran's "oldest friend" was threatened with a nervous breakdown. Cross off Henry Sargent as the person who knew all, who was the next most likely to be taken into Eckhard's confidence? Morrie Grove and he appeared to hit it off well, but Morrie was leen on the trail of the "mysterious stranger." Barth. Barth. Why was he working as an accommodating waiter if he had money enough to live at Si Pond's and hire his boat, complete with phonograph? Was it possible that he was the artist's side-kick? Apparently he had had something of importance to impart the night at Miss Tassie's! Had he left the message on the seat of the limousine? The scribbled note had suggested: Don't follow. Stop. Think. Where would you hide what you had stolen? Proof enough that the man knew the Constable was missing. How did he know? He had been on hand to speed the Digbys on their way the afternoon they had received the fake message. Lem and his wife were sure they knew who had sent it. He'd drop in at the Gallery this very afternoon, and get that bit of information from Betsy. Had Barth sent it to get them off the premises while he took the painting? How could he get away with a 31x38 piece of canvas? If he had, why advise him, Myles Jaffray, who had no connection with the Gallery, to think where he would hide what he had stolen? Okay, he'd bite, working on the premise that Barth had stolen a picture from its frame at a crowded exhibition, that he had smuggled it to this country--he was

Several County Residents At Columbus Meet

Federation President Calls For World View For Ohio Farmers

Several residents from Fayette County heard the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation president, Everett Rittenour, call for farmers to become "citizens of the world" at a meeting of the federation in Columbus Tuesday.

Rittenour said Ohio farmers must stop "sticking their heads in the sand" and get a "world view" of events.

Rittenour sounded the need for Ohio farmers taking an interest in world affairs by telling them:

"What happens in Hong Kong or Moscow or London may have a greater effect on Ohio farmers today than what happened in Washington D. C. or Columbus."

"The day of provincialism is gone. By provincialism I mean narrow-minded attention to our local affairs. The farmers today must be cosmopolitan. He must be a citizen of the world. He can no longer stick his head in the sand."

Turning to local issues, Rittenour told the farmers they must work more closely with business and labor groups in the future. "We must join them in good causes," he said.

Tuesday afternoon Murray D. Lincoln, the president of the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies proposed a five-point program to boost national income to $600,000,000,000 more than twice the present total.

"Democracy and abundance are interdependent," said Murray D. Lincoln in a speech to the 31st annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. "Abundance cannot flourish under regimentation and democracy cannot flourish without abundance."

Here's Lincoln's proposed program:

(1) Increasing wages to permit workers to purchase more.

(2) Maintaining adequate farm income to raise both city and farm standards.

(3) Providing adequate pensions for old people so they can buy more agriculture and industrial commodities.

(4) Getting more and more of our young people to attend high school and college.

(5) Distributing our abundance as a moral substitute for war.

Among the Fayette County residents who attended either or both the Monday and Tuesday sessions of the federation meeting were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Chester James, Mrs. and Mrs. Harry Hiser, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Theobald, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sollars and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Montgomery.

Mrs. J. L. Owens, Mrs. Forest Ervin, Clarence Cooper, Preston Dray, A. F. Ervin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nisley, Jerry Cory, Ruth Engle, Virginia Bandy, Charles Gibeau, Connie Pyle and Robert Merlweather.

Jr. Band Holds First Practice

Fifty County School Kids Attend Session

Fifty county school children filed into Eagles Hall here Monday night to start a new adventure.

Instruments under arm or on shoulder, the kids reported for the first practice of the first junior school band in Fayette county's history.

Rolland Chase, band director for county schools, was highly pleased with the turnout.

A completely voluntary project, the junior band is being promoted by the Fayette County School Band boosters.

Most of the youngsters, ranging from the fourth to eighth grade, are just beginning the study of their instruments in the schools.

As far as playing in a band, Monday night's session was a completely new experience for them.

Although the group has little playing experience, Chase said that they are very eager to learn.

At the practice session, the director got the junior musicians acquainted with the different instruments.

Then he taught them how to tune up, and from there began to teach them how to blend with proper tone volume from each instrument.

For their first session, the youngsters even learned how to interpret some of the motions of the conductor's hands.

Chase said that his musicians are now ready to begin practicing actual pieces and that he has ordered scores for the next practice.

All the children who showed up for the practice were transported to Washington C. H. by their parents. Chase said that the attendance at practices will continue to depend upon the kids themselves and their parents.

The second practice is scheduled for Monday, December 12 and will be held at the Eagle's Hall again.
